Written just before Keats left for Italy

Flats. Aug. 18. 1820

My dear Friend

Your brother John went out this morning soon after he was up and before he had time to answer your letter. He went up to Hampstead to see poor Keats & I suppose was detained so long there as not to have time to return to Flats as he was engaged to dine at the west End of the Town. I therefore send you this hasty note to prevent you from feeling any anxiety on the score of your letter by informing you of its safe arrival with its enclosure of three Bills value together Five hundred Pounds. I have to give you my Share of thanks for your Assistance in this matter - The arrangements you allude to John will make with you when you see him in the Country - I am going for a few days of Relaxation next week & on my return I suppose John will be turning his face northward. I did intend my next Journey to be in that Direction, but I am obliged to attend my Sister Home as she is much of an Invalid & I wish also to see my brothers for the last time at their Claverton Farm where John has been spending a few weeks. You will give my kind regards to all my friends at Bakewell & believe me Yours very sincerely

J. A. Heyer

Mrs H. desires the kindly remembrance
